Megachurch Changes Position on Homosexuality - posted by sermonindex (), on: 2015/3/18 12:02

City Church is San Francisco's largest evangelical megachurch. The pastor and elders have announced that their congregation will now allow non-celibate homosexuals to become members. According to their pastor, this is the best way for them to minister to all those God is bringing through their doors. For more on this, read Nick Pitts's Questions and truth: San Francisco's City Church.

It seems that evangelicals are forced to two options today. One is to affirm historical biblical orthodoxy, which forbids homosexual practice. Many, whether gay or straight, see this position as antagonistic to the LGBT community. The other is to revise historic theological doctrines regarding sexual morality.
