

Devotional Thoughts :: Truly the mark of One body

Truly the mark of One body - posted by rainydaygirl, on: 2015/6/2 11:22

Father is Truly Very Alive and Teaching and Leading His children. Literally experiencing the scriptures of "when you rise up, when you sit down, as you walk along the way, when you eat, when you catch a ball, when you clean a bathroom with someone, and on and on." But not just encouraging, but ALL Connecting. Just like times in one large gathering. This can Only be the mark of Jesus Truly Alive and Active in us. Truly the mark of a people who are Listening and allowing Jesus to be the Head of their individual lives and hearts. Truly the mark of One body.

(after reading this i was thinking about how truly amazing the Lord work in His children when they are all seeking to live in obedience on to Him. Just Jesus as the head, leading daily each of us in our lives to walk with Him, to use the gifts He gives us and become servants seeking to encourage, and help one another along. WoW! what a picture)
