In many Asian villages, the nearest water source is a several-minute walk away from people's homes. For women having to carry gallons of water for their families, it's a burdensome, long walk. In other villages, people depend on tanker trucks to bring the water they need, but these trucks don't always have enough water for everyone. Water wells drilled by Gospel for Asia, known as Jesus Wells, offer clean water for an average of 300 people for years to come. Please ask God to provide for more Jesus Wells to show entire communities how much He cares.
