Just a note to say hello, I have only just discovered this goldmine site. Listening to Mr. Spurgeon(5413) right now. Hope to find intriguing discussion in days to come.

ya, its a little bit different in they way things are posted. But it doesn't take much to time to get used to it.

Welcome beloved sister

Sunny Florida...nice!! I am in Kentucky. Which of these forums are best for a person who is wanting to gain more insights on scripture. I am not a debator, just a simple learner. t.

toireasa,

Hello there! I am also from Ky. wow, small world. I am near the N.Ky/Cinci airport.

I hope you are blessed by the fellowship here on SI.

In Him, Chanin

Hi toireasa,

A warm welcome to you. "goldmine" :-D

That's been mentioned before, there is just so much to glean from and hope you are encouraged and grow in the knowledge of the Lord.

There is a section on Scriptures and Doctrine in the forum headings and a helpful way may be to use the search at the top of the home page to give a try for specifics. Let us know how we can be of any help navigating the site and perhaps start a post on your own from a section of scripture that is edifying, we haven't had that in a bit, something that wouldn't get bogged down in tactical type things... ;-)

Also, the devotionals are good place for this...

Abraham, My Friend

At your service sister :-D

Feel free, so often will come across other nuggets in searching out answers to questions... It really is a mine here, a wonderful place to get entrenched in. 8-)
