

General Topics :: reaping what you sow and laziness my worst sin and others!!

reaping what you sow and laziness my worst sin and others!! - posted by deltadom (), on: 2005/6/15 14:44

Whatever in your life whether it is good or bad you either sow or reap!!! Be not deceived what ever a man sows that will he also reap, this verse has been hitting me like an arrow at a target!!

God cleanse me from lust and laziness as whatever I sow I reap, I want to conquer these two areas I have realised that if I sow the opposite I may actually reap the benefits tis shows that a little bit of scripture will reap more and so forth!!! I think this is one of the hardest hitting issues in my life on top of the myriad of the other ones . Because I am deceived I think that my sin wont affect me just yet but it does !!

God help me !!

Re: reaping what you sow and laziness my worst sin and others!!, on: 2005/6/16 17:39

Quote:

-----I have realised that if I sow the opposite I may actually reap the benefits

-----

This is true. Usually, there is something in there about how 'time' is spent. And, I don't mean only reading the Bible, although that is always a good thing to do. If you are going to stop doing one thing, you do need to do something else in its place, realistically speaking. This is one aspect of how you alter an appetite for one thing, to another. Prayer is essential too, though. It is your connection with God which will make it possible for you to change.

Re:, on: 2005/6/16 17:49

I have pretty much the same two issues that i struggle with the most.

And im 'training' myself to turn away from such things. By doing what dorcas said

Quote:

-----

dorcas wrote:

If you are going to stop doing one thing, you do need to do something else in its place, realistically speaking.

-----

Some stuff I do to 'replace' the sin or actions or beginning stages. Is Audio sermons, and the compilation on Fireonthealtar.com.

I've been truly reformed by listening to all of this, and watching some truly edifying things.

God will bring us both into deliverance, and we just have to wait on Him, but not put ourselves in certain situations, and then when 'bad' situations come we are to run away and seek the Lord.