

Welcome & Intro :: Hello from the new guy*Hello from the new guy - posted by Onesiphorus (), on: 2020/8/5 21:35

Hello
I have been enjoying myself here for awhile. I so enjoy Major Ian Thomas, and Corey Ten-Boom. Last weekend I listen to Vance Havner, I had never heard him speak before but It was so good. I listen to Darlene Deibler Rose's story last winter and she referred to A.W. Tozer. So I looked him up here and enjoyed him too. I can tell I have my work cut out for me here. LOL

So hello and blessings from the new guy.

Bert

Re: Hello from the new guy - posted by cchhhrrriiiss (), on: 2020/8/5 23:18

Welcome, Bert!

Re: - posted by docs (), on: 2020/8/7 12:32

Hello and blessings good brother.

Re: - posted by Onesiphorus (), on: 2020/8/7 21:42

Thanks guys for the welcome

Re: Bert - posted by MrBillPro (), on: 2020/8/8 10:00

Vance Havner, I got hooked on him about a year ago, I believe I searched every sermon I could find on him, and listened to it. One of his great all time quotes I love is "You Can't Be Optimistic, With A Misty Optic". He also says to people that don't believe in God because they can't see God, his response was, "well I can't see electricity either but I'm not going to sit around in the dark". Heavenly Father, we need more men like Vance Havner today, please bring us some Vance Havner's back into our Churches...
Praise Jesus!

Re: Vance Havner - posted by Onesiphorus (), on: 2020/8/8 10:30

The one message of his I listen to was on repentance. Basically he was saying repentance was the key to revival, that we are like the miller whose paddle wheel had stopped turning because his creek had a blockage and we had been trying to turn the paddle wheel by hand. That repentance was the way to clear the blockage and let the water (Jesus) flow to do the work.

I will be listening to more of him.

Thanks Bill
Bert