Life belongs not to man.
The ones who take it, break it.

Life is for the Altar.
Those who dare to leave it there,
are the survivors of this Earth.

To really live, to live truly, to live a rich life has its root in an invitation of the Cross of Christ, to allow that Cross to do its work.

A life lived with purpose and candour:
Giving Him the vessel that he brought forth for an eternal purpose.
Giving Him our time – every hour, every minute.
Giving Him our bodies, our energy to be spent in His way
Giving Him our lives – living unto Him, spending a life on Him.
He spent His to give us this opportunity.
L. W.

My business is with all my might to serve my own generation. In doing so I shall best serve the next generation, should the Lord tarry...I have but one life to live on earth and this one life is but a brief life for sowing in comparison with eternity for reaping.

Existence – a sequence of events, imprints in sand.
Life – to be rooted and centered within the Eternal Purposes of God.

There is one life,- to look forward to the life above. There is one death,- sin; for it is this that destroys the soul. All things else, however prized by some, are the mere shadows of dreams, the phantoms of the mind.
-Gregory (of Nazianzum 328-390)

Life above
Begins now
Begins at the Cross
Has its continuation with the Cross at its core
