

General Topics :: When a heart gets weary

When a heart gets weary - posted by Valadar (), on: 2005/11/7 6:20

Hi, my fellow brothers and sisters around the world, I would like to please ask you for some "advice" to an issue that has been plaguing my heart for a very long time.

I am truthfully tired of sunday morning and youth services at my local church, -you could say I am sick and tired of all the false religiosity that happens all the time. I get tired of hearing "we are a family" and that "we love each other" when in the reality it truly doesn't happen, I have felt so discouraged in heart that at times I just don't want to attend a local church anymore.

I have a deep need and hunger for christian fellowship, but I tend to feel at the local church I attend, that it is just a polite "hi how was your week" and that's all.

Now I am not perfect and I truly am asking the Lord to change my heart to give me His love and not my own as I truly see how limited my love is.

I would gladly appreciate anyone else's views and feelings on this

Bless you all in Christ
Craig :-D