End of the Spear is a movie coming out in January about the five missionaries killed in Ecuador, Nate Saint, Jim Elliot, Ed McCully, Pete Fleming, and Roger Youderian.

Several years ago I read, The Dayumae Story, about these 5 men and their families, and the Auca Indians. It is well worth reading.

This looks excellent thanks for sharing this! I am going to try and find out if it is playing in Toronto, Canada.

Yes, I am excited to see it. I very recently watched the documentary, "Through the Gates". Amazing! Very much a blessing to me. In fact, I have ordered it (Amazon.com) for my family for Christmas :o) Thanks so much for sharing this. We need to get the word out.

I had to join the Tribe to get to the Theater Listings, to see if it would be playing near us, in Iowa. It will air in Iowa but so far not near us. My friend will be disappointed. She, loaned me the Dayumae Story, and received notice from Wycliffe about the movie.

Sorry. The documentary is called "Beyond the Gates of Splendor" and not "Through the Gates of Splendor" :o). I encourage you all to watch it before you go see the movie!

No listings for Canada at all. Sorry, there is a email link on the website for End of the Spear to check further with them, also talk to those in charge of the theaters in your area, Or pastors of the churches to ask the managers of theaters. Just some ideas. I am sure you would have thought of them yourself. :-)
