

Scriptures and Doctrine :: Apparently healing doesnt always come from God*Apparently healing doesnt always come from God, on: 2006/3/13 15:00

This is from the Associated Press... I'm only posting the first paragraph for expediency, but you get the drift:

Quote:

-----ROME (AP) - An official inquiry will begin this week into whether a French nun's apparently inexplicable recovery from Parkinson's disease was a miracle that can be attributed to Pope John Paul II, a distinction needed to put the late pontiff on the road to sainthood, a cleric said Monday.

More foolishness from the Roman Catholic Church. When will these people read their own Bible? Even with the errors that are in their version of the Bible I can still prove most Catholic doctrines to be false!

It would be laughable if it were not so sad.

Krispy

Re: Apparently healing doesnt always come from God - posted by roadsign (), on: 2006/3/13 17:27

Oh, my..... I guess, this stuff is nothing new.

While a dead man certainly cannot heal anyone (nor a living person for that matter) Satan can indeed perform healings - quite dramatically. A lady who had once been a witch and turned to Christ once shared that, and I believe her. Remember what Satan did in Egypt before Israel left.

Diane